Az Észt Tudományos Akadémia közleménye

The Estonian Academy of Sciences and University of Tartu announce a new international journal of the humanities and social sciences

TRAMES

welcome contributions from any country and any scientific school.

„Trames” intends to accumulate the best scientific thought from or about the Eastern Europe and bring it to the reader in the West. The journal is prereviewed. The criteria for the acceptance of papers are the originality of ideas, weight of arguments and clarity of presentation. The editorial board will give its preference to papers with broader theoretical attitude and a possible interdisciplinary approach. Review articles featuring the great names or events in the history of the humanities and social sciences in the Eastern Europe, and book reviews covering recent books published in or about the region are also welcome. „Trames” is published quarterly, its language of presentation is English. Further information and the style sheet for authors can be obtained from the editorial board.
